Mahatma Gandhi

Mohandas Gandhi was a leader of India's independence movement. When India was a colony of Great Britain, Gandhi used non-violent methods to protest against British rule. His efforts earned him the title Mahatma. Mahatma means "great soul."

Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi was born on October 2, 1869, in Porbandar, India. In his youth he learned the religions of Hinduism and Jainism. Non-violence is one of Jainism's main ideas.

During his years at school, Gandhi was considered an average student. In 1887 he finished his studies at the University of Bombay. He then moved to England to study law. He returned to India in 1891. He tried to start a law career, but he was unsuccessful.

Gandhi was one of the greatest political and social leaders in the 20th century. His use of nonviolent protest eventually led to his country's independence. Within his country, he supported the rights of both Hindus and Muslims. He also sought better treatment for groups upon whom everyone else looked down.

Gandhi was admired by many influential people of his day and beyond.
